THEY CLOSED GAP AGAIN.

San Jose Celebrates a Great Occasion.

A Brilliant Banquet at Hotel Vendome.

Kearney's Ticket Wins—Admiralty Case Decided—Robbers Jailed.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

SAN JOSE, April 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For years San Jose has looked forward with fond anticipation to this day, when the course of events would change the location of the Garden City from a side track to direct connection with the rest of the world. For thirty years San Jose has waited and dreamed of this new era in its commercial life. That it now fully appreciates all that the opening of the through coast route means no one will doubt who was present at the celebration last evening, when over 100 of San Jose's leading citizens gathered at the Hotel Vendome to honor the men who have helped to bring this new era of things.

The tables in the dining-room were arranged in horseshoe form. At the head of the curve in the seat of honor was O. A. Hale, master of ceremonies; at his left, J. C. Stubbs, and to the right, J. R. Kruttschnitt. Toastmaster Judge J. R. Lewis occupied a seat next to Stubbs. The company marched into the dining-room and took seats at 10 o'clock. Other members of the board of directors who occupied seats of honor were: E. O. McCormick, William H. Sproule, William F. Herrin and J. A. Fillmore.

Many of the chief men of the State were represented, as follows: T. A. Work of Pacific Grove, L. H. Garrigus of Salinas, R. E. Jacks of San Luis Obispo, Thomas Derby, Alameda, D. D. Armstrong, Paso Robles; Andrew Shaboro, San Francisco; William Steinbeck, Stockton; R. F. Lathrop and C. N. Hawkins, Hollister, and W. R. Porter, Watsonville.

RELICS OF OLD CRIMES.

CACHE OF JEWELRY UNCOVERED

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

TACOMA (Wash.), April 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A quantity of jewelry, including eighteen rings and seven watches, were found on the bank of the Palouse river near Colfax three weeks ago by Adam Weiss, a Jew. The boy kept the jewels in his discovery until Saturday, when officers went to the cache and took possession of the property. The jewelry had been carefully done up in tissue paper and buried in tobacco sacks. It was buried at least six or eight years ago, and would have remained undiscovered had not a recent fresh wash away a portion of the sand bank. The watches are very rusty and the works of some have been entirely rusted out. The estimated value of the entire lot when new is $1000 or more.

During boom times, in the early '90s, several jewelry stores were robbed in the Palouse country, and it is supposed the booty now found resulted from one of the robberies. The police believe the robber forgot the location of his cache or else died or was sent to the penitentiary.

DAMAGES FOR LIEBEL.

SHIRDETT MANFIELD WINS.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.] SAN JOSE, April 1.—The jury in the case of J. H. Mansfield, Sheriff of San Mateo county, vs. D. R. O'Keefe, editor of the Redwood City Times-Gazette, to recover $10,000 damages for an alleged libelous article reflecting on Mansfield's conduct in the prosecution of the DeWitt murder case, came into court this afternoon with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $7500.

APPEAL TO BE MADE.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.] SAN JOSE, April 1.—Defendant was granted ten days stay in which to prepare motion for a new trial. Attorney Richards in an appeal to the Supreme Court will allege error on the part of Judge Buck in transferring the suits to this county from San Mateo on his own motion, holding that as he was disqualified, his proper course would have been to ask another judge to sit in his place.

FOUGHT ON COAL CAR.

DESPERATE ROBBERIES JAILLED.

TACOMA (Wash.), April 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A life-or-death fight between two masked robbers and Joseph and Thomas Taylor of North Yakima occurred Friday afternoon on a loaded coal car in a freight train bound for Spokane. The details reached Tacoma today show that the Taylors saved their lives by a desperate display of courage and force.

Joseph Taylor was attacked and roped at Malheur. He and his brother were afterward compelled to get aboard a coal car, the train started, and they supposed the robbers re-

HAWAIIAN ADMIRALTY CASE IS DECIDED.

IMPORTANT OPINION BY FEDERAL COURT OF APPEALS.

Only the United States Supreme Court Has Jurisdiction to Entertain Appeals from the Supreme Court of the Territory.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.] SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—In the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today Judge Gilbert handed down an important opinion in the case of the Wilder's Steamship Company, a Hawaiian corporation, against George U. Hime and others, appellants. The question presented was whether this court had jurisdiction to entertain an appeal before the Supreme Court of the Territory of Hawaii in an admiralty case. The case in question was begun by filing a libel in admiralty in the Circuit Court of the First Circuit, Hawaiian Islands, Island of Oahu, February 9 of last year.

The case was heard April 9 and decided May 7, 1900, and the appeal to the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands, in which a final decree was rendered November 5, 1900. Thereupon notice was given of an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

It was contended that an appeal in an admiralty case was not barred by the terms of the Hawaiian Islands Act, but that the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands, in its decree, had appealed from the Supreme Court of the Territory.

The motion for the allowance of the appeal was denied. The decision emphasizes the fact that the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands, in its decree, had appealed from the Supreme Court of the Territory.

Many of the chief men of the State were represented, as follows: T. A. Work of Pacific Grove, L. H. Garrigus of Salinas, R. E. Jacks of San Luis Obispo, Thomas Derby, Alameda, D. D. Armstrong, Paso Robles; Andrew Shaboro, San Francisco; William Steinbeck, Stockton; R. F. Lathrop and C. N. Hawkins, Hollister, and W. R. Porter, Watsonville.

REFORMIST TICKET SUCCESSFUL AT ANNUAL MEETING.

Fresno Crowded With Growers for the Election of Officers of Their Association—Fight Was Three-Conserved. Reports on Season's Operations.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.] FRESNO, April 1.—The town was crowded today as on circus or market day for the annual meeting and election of officers of the California Raisin Growers' Association. The controversy this year was complicated by a triple ticket—the conservative, or incumbent directors' ticket, the reformist or Kearney ticket, and the radical or the so-called "reformist" ticket, with M. T. Kearney as the avowed candidate for president, and lastly, the compromise mixed ticket of small growers, with F. E. "Big Boy" as the champion, upon whom the Dunes and the "reformist" ticket were expected to split.

There were also several amendments to the bylaws, the most important of which is the one to provide for a fund of $5000 to be aggregated to be expended by the directors for the erection or leasing of warehouses, packing-houses and other buildings for the benefit of the products by advertising, by the employment of agents and solicitors, by the display of exhibits at exhibitions and elsewhere, by the gift of samples and in any other manner expend such money.

The temperance element in the grape-growing industry has made a strong fight against this amendment, and a meeting was not called until 11 o'clock. Amory Hall being crowded to suffocation, and the meeting was adjourned to the interior and valley-grape growing county hall, where the meeting was held.

The statement has gone out from the postoffice that more mail matter is being handled here than ever before. The forenoon was devoted to a long and excited wrangle as to the mode of procedure.

GENERAL REPORT.

Medical science and skill has succeeded in producing a remedy which cures that extremely annoying trouble.

W. Rollins writes briefly and to the point regarding his experience with the cure. He says: "I consider the Pyramid Pile Cure without an equal. In less than thirty days I have been cured of a trouble which has been with me for many years. I can now say I am cured of every possible opportunity it deserves it."

From this gentleman's letter our readers may promptly see that the cure is a simple and effective one. The Pyramid Pile Cure is a simple and effective one. The Pyramid Pile Cure is a simple and effective one. The Pyramid Pile Cure is a simple and effective one.

Defender Gives Promise

Tanforan Long Shots Win—
Western Stewards Meet.
Larkspur Wins.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BRISTOL, (B. I.), April 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The last steel plate was placed on the cup defender's stern today and partly riveted. The big Oregon pine mainmast, made two years ago for the Columbia, has been lying on the south wharf since it was discarded for the hollow steel cylinder, but today designer Nat. Herreshoff was looking it over, and it will probably be made ready for use if needed. A big bundle of canvas, said to be the suit of racing sails for the Columbia, was taken down from the north shop today. The old cup defender, however, is not expected here until about April 23.

Howard Gould held a business conference today with John H. Herreshoff, the head of the firm. He is believed to have ordered a small repair to replace his crack. Gould, who has been looking at the new defender, he remarked before returning to his yacht that her lines show great beauty and strength, and give promise of high speed.

"OUTLAWS" ARE RECOGNIZED.

WESTERN STEWARDS' DECISION. [BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.] CHICAGO, April 1.—At a meeting of the Board of Stewards of the Western Jockey Club today a resolution was adopted recognizing entries in stake races made by "outlawed" jockeys, prior to the passage of the so-called "outlaw" resolution. The resolution permits the running in the Montgomery Handicap at Memphis this afternoon of a number of horses belonging to jockeys who had been expelled from the association.

The board also passed a resolution striking off from the list of recognized jockeys the names of several who had been expelled from the association.

A surprise was sprung on the stewards and present by Robert Auld of St. Louis, a member of the board of stewards and vice-chairman of that body. Auld handed in his resignation as soon as the meeting was called to order. Auld was formerly president of the St. Louis Fair Grounds Association, recently sold to a syndicate affiliated with the Western Turf Congress. Auld stated that he resigned because he did not wish to have any act of his as a member of the stewards misconstrued.

THE RED CAPE.

BY G. LANGTON CLARKE.

[Published under special arrangement with the K. S. McClure Co., New York.]

"SUCH an infernal nuisance," said Jack Somerville, as he sat in an easy chair, nursing an sprained ankle, and scowling at his friend, Dick Callender, "what did you let go of the ladder for?"

"Sorry, old man," said the other, "but it was as much your fault as mine."

"And I had promised my aunt to meet a girl, a cousin of mine, who is coming to stay with her. It's nearly train time now. Look here, you will have to go instead of me."

"I?" cried Dick, aghast. "Why, I shouldn't know her if I saw her!"

"Neither should I," growled the other. "Haven't seen her for years, but she will be wearing a red cape, so my aunt says, and that ought to be enough to identify her—a tall, dark girl, with a red cape. Now, don't stand gaping; you have no time to lose."

"Take her in a cab with my aunt's, and then come back here."

He pulled out his watch again with an impatient gesture, and Dick, anxious to atone for his share in the accident, hurried away.

As he lounged about the platform, waiting for the train to arrive, he remembered that the young lady's name had not been mentioned, so, if it had, he had entirely forgotten it. "I'll stick to the red cape," he said to himself, "and I can't go wrong."

When the train at last arrived Dick moved slowly along the line of cars, keeping a watchful eye on the passengers as they alighted, and his vigilance was rewarded by the sight of a tall, dark young woman, wearing a scarlet cape, and carrying several parcels.

"I beg your pardon," Dick began, diffidently addressing her. "I have been commissioned to meet you, and escort you to the house. Jack intended to come, but he has sprained his ankle."

The young lady looked greatly distressed. "Oh, I hope he is not much hurt," she cried, as she clasped her hands over her bundles. "Poor Jack! I suppose you are a great friend of his."

"We are excellent friends," Dick replied. "My name is Richard Callender. It seems as though I should say, but Jack quite forgot to mention your name to me."

"That's very odd," replied the girl. "And you say you are a friend of his? My name is Mary Heatherstone. Do you mean to say you have never heard John speak of me?"

"Oh, of course! What a chump I am!" cried the young man, with a fatal readiness to avoid explanations, which was one of his characteristics. "Now, tell me all about Jack. Miss Heatherstone said, after she had been comfortably established in a cab, and the young man had seated himself by her side. "Does he seem quite happy?"

"First mate!" said Dick, "particularly since he became engaged."

The young lady smiled and looked pleased. "He has had plenty of time to get used to that idea," she said. "Oh, I don't know," Dick replied. "Two weeks is not such a very long time, you know."

entered the waiting-room Miss Heatherstone turned to him. "How nobly you ignored your former friendship," she said, "you spoke to him as if he were beneath your notice and a complete stranger."

"Why, so he is," replied Dick, considerably mystified. "I never saw the fellow before."

"Am I going crazy?" the girl cried, sinking into a chair. "Didn't you tell me that he sent you to meet me? That he had sprained his ankle? A nice excuse, indeed!"

"Of whom are you speaking?" asked Dick, bewildered. "Of Jack?"

"Yes! Yes! That man, Jack—my Jack."

"But that isn't my Jack. My friend is at home, as I told you, with a sprained ankle. I don't understand it at all. Mr. Somerville asked me—"

"Mr. Somerville?" cried Miss Heatherstone, sitting bolt upright. "Is that the name of the gentleman who sent you?"

"Of course it is," Dick answered almost testily. "He told me to look out for a tall, dark girl with a red cape, his cousin, and—"

"And you mistook me for her? Oh! I see it all. Oh, Jack, Jack, how I have wronged you!" Dick's consternation, the young lady immediately went into a fit of hysterics, and sobbed bitterly.

"What's the matter with you?" the attendant and the removal of the sufferer into an inner room for the application of a hot water bottle.

While Miss Heatherstone, wrestled with her attack of nerves, Dick, horrified, looked down, found that he had stepped on the foot of the sufferer, and he hastened out into the vestibule in search of the other victim, and found him leaning gloomily against a pillar.

At first the outraged avenger refused to listen to any explanation, and seemed strongly inclined to make a personal assault upon the innocent cause of the mischief, but Dick's remorse and agitation finally disarmed him, and when they parted at the door of the waiting-room they shook hands with expressions of mutual esteem and thankfulness that the error had been discovered in time.

When Dick entered the room where his friend was still nursing his ankle, the latter regarded him with considerable interest.

"What's the matter with you?" he asked. "You look as if you'd seen a ghost. Where is Mary?"

"I don't know," was the reply. "Don't know!" shouted the other. "And you with her cape on your arm?"

Then, Dick looking down, found that he was still carrying the cape which Miss Heatherstone had handed to him in the waiting-room.

"Isn't that the cape?" continued Jack Somerville, angrily.

Dick pointed to a laugh that was half hysterical.

"It's a red cape, all right," he said, "but it was the wrong Mary that was in it."

GORMAN HAS NO APOLOGY.

Ex-Senator Says Illiterates Have Themselves to Blame for Disfranchisement, not the Democrats.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.] NEW YORK, April 1.—Ex-Senator Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland, in an interview regarding the recent political legislation enacted at Annapolis, which appears in a special from Washington, says:

"If there are many illiterates in Maryland who would be affected by the passage of the present law, the blame lies with themselves. We have had the most perfect system of public schools for thirty years of any State south of Pennsylvania. Since 1870 the colored population have had ample opportunity to learn to read and write, by means of the schools furnished by the State. If they are illiterate, it is because they refused to attend the schools."

"If the colored people would have no trouble in regard to the suffrage if confined to the legitimate residents of the State or the province who have interest there, but the exclusion of colored persons from participation in elections in the Southern States and, as I believe, the systematic efforts of certain employers to obtain cheap labor have been the means of bringing great numbers of undesirable colored men into Maryland, who have no interest in our community and possibly do not possess sufficient intelligence to enable them to vote without assistance. They have been used, however, by the politicians and threaten good order in the State. The Democrats of Maryland intend to

TO ESCAPE THE TARIFF.

Big English Firm of W. Jessop & Sons Will Manufacture Steel in the United States.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—A.M.] NEW YORK, April 1.—S. J. Robinson, managing director of W. Jessop & Sons, Limited, of Brightside Works, Sheffield, England, arrived here on the Cunarder Lucania for the purpose of determining as to the location of the plant which the English concern proposes erecting in the United States.

The Jessop company, which is capitalized at $2,000,000, operates one of the oldest established industrial plants in Europe, it being founded as far back as 1774. It manufactures crucible steel chiefly. The Sheffield works undertake a number of large contracts for the British government and give employment to 1600 hands.

In an interview last night, Robinson said: "We are going to build a plant on this side principally with a view to escape the tariff of some 40 a ton which the United States government imposes on crucible steel entering this country. Having works here will enable us to extend our important business connections in America."

Points from a New Boarder.

[Chicago Times-Herald:] When the new boarder went into the dining-room and sat down, there was only one other person at the table. The new boarder had a kind heart and thought he would treat the other man.

"I suppose you've boarded here for some time?" he said to the other man.

"Yes, quite a while," he replied. "How is it? Any good?"

"Yes, pretty fair. I have no complaint."

"Landlady treat you decent?"

"Well, perhaps I ought to—"

"Oh, never mind, old man," said the new boarder. "That's all right, I'm on. But, say, maybe I never tried chukking her under the chin once in a while. That's the way to get on with 'em. I never had a landlady that didn't treat me all right. It's all in the way you handle 'em. Call 'em 'sister' and give 'em soft, cozy talk about their looks. That's the way to fetch 'em. I'll bet I can live here for a month right now without being asked for a cent. Watch me nudge her when she comes in. Before this time tomorrow she'll be telling me her family history. Poor old girl! She looks as if she'd had troubles. Probably got tied up to some John Henry who was about as smart enough to shoot chickens out of the yard, and that's all. My name's Hudson. Let's see, I haven't heard yours, have I?"

"N-no, I believe not. But it doesn't matter. I'm just the landlady's husband."

[Detroit Free Press:] "The colonel first met his wife at a watering place, he tells me."

"Yep. And he has had a horror of water ever since."

THE GOVERNMENT BREAKWATER.

Elsewhere in today's Times we print in full two timely reports on the San Pedro breakwater work, dealing at length with the disputed question of the quality of some of the rock from the Chatsworth Park quarries which has been used for the work. One of the reports is by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the other by Division Engineer Smith of the United States Corps of Engineers, who was instructed by the Chief of Engineers, Gen. John M. Wilson, to make a special investigation of and report upon the subject. Col. Smith's report goes into the question in detail and at length, and its conclusions defend the rock used and support the action of the officers of his corps who selected and accepted it. Incidentally Col. Smith unmasks upon this journal account of certain strictures published in its columns, based upon a partial and incomplete examination of some inferior samples of the rock then in question, but which have since been shown to be not fair samples of the general body of sandstone from that quarry which is finding its way into the breakwater. The officer's criticisms are published by The Times without comment and without other comment than this and a single one inserted into the body of his report. The breakwater contractors, the California Construction Company, are sustained by the division engineer, and so also is Capt. James J. Meyer, the engineer in immediate charge of the work, together with his subordinates. The Times publishes these reports with honest satisfaction over the conclusions reached and is glad to have found that it was mistaken in its first publications criticizing the quality of some of the rock destined for use in the breakwater, though some other portions were rejected by the government.

THE BOYCOTT AS A BOOMERANG.

The strike among the dock laborers at Marseille, which still continues, is likely to have a disastrous effect upon the commercial prosperity of that great shipping port. Large quantities of perishable goods are rotting on the docks, and a score of steamers are plying to discharge their cargoes. The damage already done by the strike in the commerce and industries of Marseille is estimated at over $500,000, while the men have lost nearly $1,000,000 in wages. The commerce of the city is almost at a complete standstill. Foodstuffs are scarce, and the price of many necessities has doubled, while a number of factories have been forced to close. The history of the past century shows numerous cases in which the prosperity of busy manufacturing and commercial cities has been permanently destroyed by strikes. The most striking effects of such obstructive strikes invariably fall upon those who least able to bear them—the laborers. The future of the greatest commercial country the world has ever known hangs today admittedly in the balance, as a result of the persistent and unrelenting policy of the dictatorial unions.

THE CUBAN SITUATION.

Amid all the divergent views that bear in regard to the future of Cuba, the statement made by Gen. Hugh Lee, at a recent banquet in his honor in Omaha, is the most interesting. Gen. Lee showed that there was a complication in regard to the status of the United States toward the island, Cuba and the Philippines, where some people choose to find complications. Under the Teller amendment the United States disclaimed any intention of exercising sovereignty, protection or control over the island, except for the purpose of maintaining peace, and when that is accomplished the island should be turned over to its own people. That declaration is binding on the government, and in the opinion of Gen. Lee will be and should be rigidly adhered to.

Gen. Lee believes that Cuba will in time to the conditions imposed by the Platt amendment, in the hands of its own people, and that the United States can finally maintain the pledged policy of the island. The foreign and property owners, he says, will not allow the island to be taken over by ex-soldiers, who will be actively on deck when the time comes to fill the government offices. Gen. Lee added: "Cuba's future will be determined by Cuba's statesmanship. Should the collective Cuban wisdom be sufficient to keep the craft afloat on the waters of prosperity, and establish a stable government from among the people, property and give confidence to capital, there will be no disposition on the part of the United States to interfere; but if the government problem cannot be solved after a fair trial by the Cubans, the future destiny of the island will be forever committed to the care of the great American republic."

These are the words of a statesman and a patriot. They present the true situation between the United States and Cuba, in a nutshell.

A MOTHER BOER APPEAL.

The dispatches inform us that "Charles D. Pierce, representative in New York of the Boers of the Orange Free State, has issued an appeal to the Americans in which he analyzes the British terms of peace and applauds the Boers' refusal to accept them." It is charged by this Boer agent that the British government has acted in bad faith; that "Lord Kitchener is trying to make a Boer out of Gen. Buller," and that the acts of the British army are like the cruelty of the Turks in Armenia. He further complains that the British "promise of enfranchisement after a period of military rule as a crown colony, but disfranchisement will be indefinitely postponed. It now lies with the American people," declares this agent of the Boers, "to decide whether the war is to be one of extermination, and the Boers appeal to them for their mediation."

It is apparent upon the surface that this "appeal" is not made in good faith, nor with the expectation that it can in anywise benefit the Boer cause, which is utterly hopeless, and has been so from the day when Paul Kruger virtually declared war against England. The purpose of this latest "appeal" is to make a Boer out of Gen. Buller, and to make a Boer out of the South African conflict, by the United States or by any other power, is entirely out of the question. Representatives of the late Boer oligarchy have gone from one European capital to another, asking for intervention for the perpetration of their tyrannical rule (in the name of republicanism) without avail. There is no more reason for intervention now than existed months ago; and so just ground for intervention has ever existed.

The complaint that the British government contemplates the temporary disfranchisement of some of the inhabitants of the subjugated territory seems rather far fetched when it is remembered that the Boers practically disfranchised more than half of the inhabitants in their so-called "republic." The people, by the largest majority ever given to any candidate or party in the world's history, supported the course of the administration in this and other matters. That was a final and sufficient verdict.

The situation in South Africa is in several respects like the situation in the Philippines. Does anybody (even the so-called anti-imperialists) suppose that the American people would for a moment tolerate the interference of any foreign power with the authority in the Philippines? The question answers itself. We should consider such interference not merely an impertinence, but an insult. We should not permit it. The nation attempting it would be obliged to back up its interference by force of arms. When the American people desire to engage in war with Great Britain, they can bring such a war by meddling in the South African dispute. Until we are willing and anxious to provoke a war with Great Britain, the only sensible and rational policy is that of "hands off."

The downtown churches are gradually moving toward the center, leaving the sinners of the central district to the care of the press, which never retreats.

This is the week the new president over the destinies of the nation.

THE NEW SOUTH.

A dispatch from New York announces that Leslie's Weekly is printing a paper by Col. J. S. Mosby, the famous Confederate leader, on "The Dawn of the New South," in which he says:

"The real South is just at its birth. The growth of this child of the nation may be gradual, but in the end the South will be far richer and more powerful than the North. In the days to come, the South will become the dominant section of the country."

If Col. Mosby would modify this statement by making it read "The South and the Southwest," it might safely be accepted as well founded and probable. In climate and natural resources, adapted for the support of a dense population, the South and the southwestern sections of the United States compare more favorably with any other portion of the country of equal area. That the South has not hitherto attained to a more important position in the economy of the country is due, not to a shortage of natural resources, but to the mistakes of its people—to the great and disastrous mistake of the rebellion, in the first place, and since then to further social and political errors, which it is not necessary here to particularize.

That the South is destined, before many years, to take a leading position as one of the wealthiest and most prosperous sections of the world may be readily admitted. How long we may have to wait to see a realization of this promise depends entirely upon the southern people themselves.

A WILD YARN.

The Amsterdam correspondent of a London paper telegraphs that Dr. Leyds and his colleagues have sent a private notification to Mr. Chamberlain, warning him that the powerful combination of European and American merchants intend to boycott England's goods until independence is granted to the Boers.

Both the Philippine rebellion and the South African war have been profitable in canards and "roorbacks." There has been almost as much fighting in the columns of newspapers as upon the "tented field." It is safe to say that the story telegraphed from Amsterdam is another of these unfounded yarns. No considerable number of European or American merchants are likely to commence a commercial boycott against Great Britain, in order to show their sympathy with the South African disfranchisement. Commerce is a strictly cold-blooded business, and the consumers of Europe and America will continue to buy English goods just as long as it is to their financial advantage to do so.

It is evident that a cause must be growing very desperate when it has to be propped up with such weak and wobbly staves as these.

A New Jersey man was thrown from his carriage while out riding and badly injured, and he had hardly gathered himself together when a big dog attacked him, tearing his clothes and chewing his arm. What else happened when the dog got through is not recorded. It certainly is a "rag" against it with a vengeance.

The chap who attempted to assassinate the czar showed wonderful good sense in committing suicide. The expense of his trial is all done away with. Here is a pointer which any desperado is well advised to follow. Miss Tillie Sallinger has a poke bonnet to match her eyes, and very little else. Some little while ago she was very charming, and was very charming. But the girls would have none of her. They have a song and then they pick up all the old tin cans and bottles out in his back yard and stick things up in them. He never has been able to make such a remark.

A small Redding boy, who has a penchant for playing with matches, was arrested for setting fire to a house. The small boy had his pants warmed up by something which he thought was a match. He never has been able to make such a remark.

Harry Fallon, who claims to be an ex-regulator, drew a razor while on a train at Sacramento and became involved in a quarrel with a passenger. He was quite friendly to the passengers, whom he imagined were about to be killed by the effects of the footfall treadle. He had intended to sleep off the effects of the footfall treadle. He had intended to sleep off the effects of the footfall treadle.

A barber at Hayward's cleared his shop of a gang of loafers who came in to whittle, smoke and sleep. He had a saw of old-fashioned kind, and then he picked up all the old tin cans and bottles out in his back yard and stuck things up in them. He never has been able to make such a remark.

The question with the average citizen now is whether the 15-cent man is going to get under the new barber law is going to be 50 per cent. better than the 10-cent shaver he has been getting.

It has often been said that any number of men would be secured on a petition to have an innocent man hanged or a murder committed. The saloon men have come pretty near proving the assertion.

If Char "Nick" wants to save his bacon he had better be trekking toward Los Angeles. He has a good chance of being shot by a man who is a battery of the Light Artillery going into action.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

BURBANK THEATER. It is rather hard lines for an actor to appear in a play immortalized by one of the most famous players of his generation. The Rip Van Winkle of Joseph Jefferson was a notable artistic creation. So thoroughly was the great comedian identified himself with this role that his impersonation must remain the ideal one for those who have seen him in the character at his best. So completely is Mr. Jefferson associated with the character in the public mind—or at least the minds of the older generation of playgoers—that any actor who essays the role must be prepared to suffer comparison to the great comedian. No player has yet been found who can stand such a comparison without detriment. Mr. Jefferson is to Rip Van Winkle what E. A. Sothern was to Hamlet. And what John T. Raymond would either of these characters be made to play in the hands of a later day, the charge of imitation is likely to be brought against them.

Mr. Jefferson's company are presenting a fairly good performance of the play. The play is a good one, though the charge of imitation is likely to be brought against them. The play is a good one, though the charge of imitation is likely to be brought against them.

CAN HAVE IT OUR WAY.

Itinerary of President Not Dictated.

Local Plans for Visit of the Chief.

Children to See the Great Parade—Troopers for an Escort.

The President and his party will be absolutely in the hands of the Los Angeles Reception Committee from the time the special Presidential train reaches Redlands Tuesday morning.

This is in substance the report made by W. H. Holabird to the Executive Committee of the President's Reception Committee, relative to his recent trip to San Francisco to consult with Henry W. Scott of that city.

Mr. Holabird was sent to San Francisco by the local committee to make, if possible, some changes in the itinerary of the President, as set forth in the letter of Mr. Scott to the Chamber of Commerce here. That letter calls for a night spent on the long wheat at Santa Monica, and for a trip around the Kite-shaped track. In view of the fact that the President is to be in Los Angeles only two days, the local committee thought it advisable to do away with these two side trips.

In speaking of the proposed trip to the long wheat, and the passing of Tuesday night there, Mr. Holabird reported that Mr. Scott said the only reason for having the special train arrive at Redlands Tuesday morning was that the President's party may have a place of absolute quiet in which to rest the first night after the tedious trip across the continent. It was thought there could be no more secluded spot near this city, and by having the train arrive at Redlands Tuesday morning, the party would be safe from interruptions of visitors, bands or other noise.

It was supposed at first by the Los Angeles committee that the Southern Pacific Railroad might have had a hand in making this arrangement. Mr. Stubbins of that road, who is a member of the San Francisco committee, told Mr. Holabird that he was not at all interested in the matter, and that the local committee can make other arrangements, suited to the President's wishes, there is no reason for not doing so.

Though not definitely decided at the meeting of the committee at the Chamber of Commerce last evening, it was generally expressed that the local committee will endeavor to have the visitors make all the side trips Tuesday, thereby giving them two full days in Los Angeles.

The special train will reach Redlands at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. After a drive through the principal parts of that city, it is thought the train can then proceed around the Kite-shaped track, make a brief stop of perhaps half an hour at San Bernardino and then go on to Pasadena, arriving there at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. A short drive there, and perhaps a trip to Mt. Lowe, if desired by the President, could be taken during the afternoon.

Upon arrival in Los Angeles, if it is the desire of the President, the train will continue to Santa Monica, returning here Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock. It is quite probable, however, that the Pasadena trip will be cut out entirely.

NO PRIVATE ENTERTAINMENT.

Mr. Scott quoted the President as saying that he desires no private entertainment while here, preferring rather to be the guest of the whole people. Therefore his stay in Los Angeles will be at a hotel, and there will be no private parties, and no hotel accommodations have already been secured for the President's party.

During his stay in Los Angeles, the President will not be asked to attend the reception held in Century Park. He has expressed a preference to have no banquet. The matter is being left to the local committee, but no definite conclusion was reached.

Instead of a banquet, it is, however, possible that a public reception will be held. Not a hand-shaking reception, but one at which the President will make a brief address. There is only one hindrance to such an arrangement, and that is that there is not in Los Angeles an auditorium of sufficient size to accommodate the thousands who will desire to attend. It was suggested that the reception be held in Century Park, and that the President's party be taken to a subsequent meeting.

THE GRAND PAGEANT.

In the Florida Parade Wednesday, May 1, headed by the President, it is promised that Los Angeles will see a pageant of the kind which has never been witnessed in Southern California.

The Florida Committee of the Fiesta, as well as that of the Executive Committee, are making no effort to make a feature a stunner.

Although the line of march has not been decided, it will probably commence at the corner of Tenth and Main streets and proceed from that point to Temple street on Main street, thence south on Spring street to Eighth street, thence west to Broadway, and from there north to First street, where the procession will disband.

President McKinley will lead the parade from the start to the City Hall, and there leave his carriage and enter the reviewing stand, which will be erected in the vacant lot just north of the City Hall. This will give him an opportunity to review the entire show.

PLANS FOR THE CHILDREN.

Plans were discussed last evening for an arrangement whereby the school children may have a special place reserved for them on the line of march. They will probably have place along both sides of one of the main thoroughfares, where they may shower bouquets and flowers along the parade in front of the President's carriage.

There are now 15,000 school children in Los Angeles, and if given the opportunity to see the President, it is thought that at least one-third of that number will turn out. In view of the fact, a motion was passed requesting the Board of Education to invite the children to witness the procession. It was emphasized by the committee that this is not intended to in any manner increase or add the parade, but it is to give the children an opportunity to see the President.

Probably no less than two hundred thousand persons will be in Los Angeles during the two days' stay of the President and his party. The big feature of the celebration will be the parade, and to provide against a crush in the middle of the streets along the

THE PACKING OF ORANGES FOR MARKET.

Individuals credit the regular, the small, the large, the off, and the culls, the subject becomes puzzling in the extreme, and requires perfect familiarity with the business to comprehend what the manager's duties are, then add the work of accrediting to each grower the number of pounds of fruit, choice and standard fruit, the pounds of regular and off sizes in each of these grades, and presenting him a clear, comprehensive report of his entire crop at the end of the season, and it will be seen what a complicated matter it is to receive, care for and account for the fruit that goes through the ordinary packing-house in the course of the season.

The business of receiving, cleaning, sorting and sizing oranges, their packing and loading for market, is done in a uniform manner by all the packing-houses, no matter how they may differ in the details of their work. These are various means of doing this work, but the object is to handle the fruit tenderly, brush away all dust and soil, separate the quality carefully, size it so it may be firmly packed and get the fruit into the cars so solidly loaded that it may make the overland trip without damage. Of late years the genius of the inventor has devised a new machine called a sizer and packer with little damage. Formerly there was much complaint from this source, but now there are several appliances which brush the oranges thoroughly without injury to the rind. Before packing the fruit is sorted by the manager, the method of handling the fruit in account with the grower, the mechanical manner of the work may be briefly referred to. After the individual grower's lot has been received it is trucked to the hopper of the brushing machine, poured in as fast as the capacity of the brusher will admit of, carried through last machine and elevated to the sorter's table. Here several careful hands are stationed, who separate the fruit into fancy and choice qualities, either throwing the third-rate fruit into waste, or into boxes to be packed as standards. From the sorter's table the fruit goes down an incline—the fancy usually on one side and the choice on the other. This machine is called a sizer and is so arranged that each size of fruit is dropped into its proper bin. Around these bins are ranged the packers, usually young women, who are the only help on this floor who work by contract. They receive 25 cents a box for packing where the packed boxes are carried to the mailing frame by machinery and 3 cents a box in the absence of appliances for carrying away the full box. The workings of the mailing press and the rapid method of trucking the packed fruit to the car or to another portion of the floor to await loading, is easily understood. But it would require 500 per cent. of the grover and everybody else but the manager and his car loaders, to place 362 properly in a thirty-four-foot car, or a thirty-six-foot or a forty-foot car. At some of the packing-houses the fruit is packed in a few cases box-making machinery, together with a description of the fruit, a matter of the individual grower's accounts and the way in which the better managers and accountants consider this part of the business, is not generally known that many of the orange-packing establishments have their own systems of accounting equal to those of the best banking institutions of the country. To give some report of these would be a compliment to the fruit men who have in many cases originated the methods and brought them to perfection by careful attention to their details.
